Please note: For the following questions, it is most helpful if you can describe the behavior itself in as much detail as possible, as well as your interpretation of your pet's emotional state at the time. Don't worry about using technical terms; just describe what is happening to the best of your understanding.

Please describe the behavior, condition, or situation regarding your pet which you would like to change with the help of this consult. If there are several issues, list in order of priority.

Approximately how long has it been going on? Has it worsened recently?

How do you respond to your pet when s/he displays the behavior? Has this changed over time? Please explain.

How old was your pet when you got her/him? (known or estimated).

Tell me anything you know about your pet's history prior to living with you.

Describe how you got your pet (i.e., as a stray, from a breeder, from a shelter or rescue organization, from a private home, etc.)

What were your initial impressions of your pet, upon meeting him/her? What attracted you to this animal?

If you have had opportunity to observe how your pet adjusts to new situations, new people, and other animals, please tell me about it.

Who else does your pet lives with? Who does he interact with on a regular basis? (Include people and other animals.) How does your pet get along with them?

Regarding the behaviors of concern, is the behavior more or less severe when with other family members?

Describe, as fully as possible, your pet's general nature. This is your pet's personality on a day to day basis, not necessarily when in the situation that is of concern. If your pet's personality has changed since the issue of concern began, what was s/he like before the change?

If your pet's condition began recently, are there household or other life changes that have taken place during that time frame, for the pet, for you, or for someone in your home?

Because our emotions can have a strong effect on our pets, please discuss if you or someone else in your household has been having emotional difficulties during the same time frame, or if you have observed any emotional similarities between you and your pet.

Has your pet ever taken flower essences before? If yes, which ones?

How did your pet benefit from these flower essences?

If you can think of anything else that might be useful for me to know about your pet, please include it here.

Thank you for taking the time and effort to fill out this form as thoroughly and thoughtfully as possible. Your detailed information makes it possible for me to prepare the most helpful formula for your pet!
